Diamondhead residents pondering incorporation

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.
Residents of the Diamondhead Community are now pondering the advantages and disadvantages of incorporation as a city or town.

Purcell, Inc. of Pinebluff, N.C.—the developing company formerly named Diamondhead Corp.—by contract must transfer ownership of amenities such as the club house, golf course, tennis courts, swimming pools, streets and drainage to the Diamondhead Country Club and Property Owners Association by June 30, 1992.

Thomas Heier, new association president, Tuesday said Diamondhead Utilities Co. will retain ownership of the community's water and sewerage operations.

"Only streets, drainage, security, fire protection and public grounds could be transferred to a municipal government. All other facilities in perpetuity belong to the property owners," he explained.

Heier reported the association consists of about 1,000 property owners. Some members live here, but most are scattered throughout the nation.

All property owners are association members.

Ed Snow is president of Diamondhead Community Association, which consists of some 100 Diamondhead residents.

He reported the community association also has not decided if incorporation is the proper route for Diamondhead in 1992.

Snow said the community association featured Dr. Robert E. McArthur and Professor Dana Brammer of The University of Mississippi's School of Governmental Research at a recent quarterly meeting to explain various municipal government structures and what these offer.

"We were given no advice as to what type of government, if any, we should promote—they simply presented an informational report," he stated.

Snow reported Roger Dale Ladner and James Travica, District Three and Five supervisors, respectively, were invited to participate in the meeting, but did not attend. Both districts extend into Diamondhead.

Leaders of both organizations noted high costs involved in operating municipal governments might prohibit an incorporation move, but Snow said the consensus of community association members is about "50-50" on the issue.

Snow would not comment on the present condition of Diamondhead's various amenities, but stated, "We're hoping Purcell will give them to us in good shape."

Snow said his organization would seek specific legal advice in regard to incorporation as a future move.

Heier reported Diamondhead residents could seek incorporation earlier than 1992 by presenting a petition to the County Chancery Court containing the legal signatures of one-third of the community's registered voters.

Regarding Diamondhead's water system, Jim McDonald, State Board of Health, Water Division, director, Tuesday afternoon said reports that the system was never approved by the state agency are false.

He explained construction plans and specifications were approved and monthly water samples have been meeting acceptable bacteriological levels.

"For this type of development, Diamondhead has had fewer problems with its system than any other community," McDonald stated.

Heier reported he had also heard the water system rumors and plans to question officials at a Sept. 10 water rate hearing in Jackson regarding a 10 percent rate increase sought by Diamondhead Utilities.

"We're going to oppose the increase as requested," the property association president added.

Computer Sciences' new NSTL contract may top $40 million

Computer Sciences Corporation has received a possible $40 million contract from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for continued technical support at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

An $8 million one-year contract, includes options for four annual renewals. The Company values the award of $40 million over the five-year period if all options are exercised.

Under the contract, Computer Sciences will provide a wide range of technical services to NASA and other federal and state agencies resident at the facility.

The broad categories of this support includes range and test services for the state shuttle engine complex; instrument calibration and chemical analysis; pyrotechnic and high-explosive testing; systems engineering of hardware and software systems; and software development and computer operation.

The company's Applied Technology Division has supported the NASA facility since 1976 under a prior contract.

Largest of the independent computer services companies, Computer Sciences designs and engineers computer, communications systems, manages clients' computer facilities, operates an international time-sharing service called Infolink and provides other business data services.

Company headquarters are in El Segundo, Calif.

Bay co-ed to lead Hattiesburg march

By EDGAR PEREZ
Mississippi's only planned demonstration this year to support of Equal Rights Amendment passage will be led Saturday, in Hattiesburg, by the University of Southern Mississippi senior from Bay St. Louis.

Anne Marie Rosato, daughter of Santo and Gloria Rosato of Bay St. Louis, is president of the Hattiesburg Chapter, National Organization for Women.

"Our Hattiesburg Walkathon

Saturday is the only scheduled walk in Mississippi. We expect a large turnout," Rosato said.

The event, to be highlighted by a 12-mile walk starting at the USM campus, will open with a 9 a.m. kick-off rally featuring guest speakers.

"Since this event is the only one of its type planned in Mississippi and is of such vital importance to women everywhere, we hope people from the Bay-Waveland area and Hancock County will join us here Saturday," Rosato stated.

Participants are slated to walk a 12-mile route from the campus through Hattiesburg and back to USM. Many walkers will be sponsored by individuals or companies who have pledged contributions to NOW's ERA ratification fund.

Deadline for posting of the ERA is June 30, 1992.

"Our Hattiesburg Walkathon is for all the young women for ratification and also commemorates the ERA's 25th anniversary of the 19th Amendment which granted women's suffrage," Rosato stated.

"We are proud to have the Hattiesburg Chapter of the National Organization for Women lead this walk. We are proud to have the Hattiesburg Chapter of the National Organization for Women lead this walk. We are proud to have the Hattiesburg Chapter of the National Organization for Women lead this walk."

Bay man charged with killing dog

By BRENT MACEY
A Bay St. Louis man was arrested Saturday night by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department after neighbors signed an affidavit charging him with killing their dog.

Roger Bingham, 36, of 417 Corinth Street, was released on a $500 bond. He was scheduled to appear before Bay St. Louis City Judge Joseph Benvenuti Wednesday night.

According to a Bay St. Louis police report, Bingham said he was leaving his fenced back yard Wednesday evening at approximately 7 p.m. when two large black labradors attacked him.

The report states Bingham's eight-year-old daughter was in the yard and the dogs kept attacking the fence, trying to get in.

Bingham then reported that he went into his house and returned to the front yard with a .22 caliber semi-automatic rifle. He shot the larger black male labrador who died some 45 seconds later after running some 20 feet.

Pass Industrial Park sells final parcels

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.
Harrison County has sold the final parcels in its 140-acre Pass Christian Industrial Park just off Bayou Pass Road.

Perry Wingo, County Development Commission executive director, Tuesday morning in Gulfport said an industry already located in the park purchased a remaining portion of the park, but he would not reveal which industry bought the property or the amount of acreage.

Champion Shipyard, Gulf Coast Precision and A. Engineering, Pascatache and Gulf Coast Fabricators are located in the park.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors Tuesday accepted a commission recommendation to sell an additional 10 acres of the park to Gulf Coast Shipyard.

One of the parcels purchased by the shipyard was the 10-acre parcel located in the park.

The shipyard purchased the parcel for $100,000, according to the commission recommendation.

Juvenile girls stage robbery

By BRENT MACEY
A group of juvenile girls staged a robbery Tuesday night in the Bay St. Louis area.

The girls, who were between the ages of 12 and 15, staged the robbery at a local store.

The girls threatened the store clerk with knives and demanded money.

The clerk complied with their demands and the girls fled with the money.

The store clerk called the police and the girls were arrested shortly thereafter.

The girls are currently being held in the Hancock County Jail.

The girls' parents have been notified and are attempting to locate their daughters.

The girls are being held in the Hancock County Jail.

RESULT OF ARSON—Jordan River Shores Community resident Greg Blackwell views charred debris of a summer residence at the corner of Ponder Drive and Choctaw Street in the community which burned about 7:30 a.m. Monday. Ed Erloux, Diamondhead fire safety administrator and Hancock County arson investigator, said the Kilo Volunteer and Diamondhead Fire Departments responded to the blaze reported by a nearby resident, but the piling-up structure was completely involved in flames when units arrived. He determined an arsonist started the fire which totally destroyed the A-frame structure. Erloux also reported the County Sheriff's Department is trying a suspect in the incident. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Real estate professor says smaller houses inevitable

The cost of borrowing money has skyrocketed in recent months, and that will force consumers to accept smaller homes, during the 1980s, much as they have had to accept smaller automobiles, said a University of Mississippi Real Estate professor.

"Because lending institutions are having to pay higher rates for money, consumers are being faced with the need to accept smaller automobiles," said Dr. Dennis Toth, holder of the J. Ed Turner Chair of Real Estate at Ole Miss.

While interest rates may drop in the coming decade, they will not decrease to what the rates were in 1975.

One of the primary effects of the higher rates is that housing units will have to be smaller, he added.

"Newly constructed houses just will have to be smaller. The average size of a new American home, doubled during the period from 1949-71, but the reverse of this trend started last year," Dr. Toth said.

"This downsizing of homes will take us back to the 1950s-type homes with 1,000 square feet, one bath and very few extras."

"People will undoubtedly miss fireplaces, dishwashers and two-car garages, but they just will not be able to afford them. The American home, like the automobile, will shrink in size but will cost just as much," he said.

Dr. Toth said the next decade's higher mortgage costs will bring with it a tendency for higher apartment rents; an increased revitalization of older inner city neighborhoods; more homes built in the form of attached housing or high rise developments; and increased buying of mobile homes and manufactured housing.

Even though the outlook may seem unfavorable, Dr. Toth said it is a good idea for consumers to buy homes in the most desirable areas to be on the money should opportunity arise, but it is still advisable to go out and try to buy your own home, he commented.

"Someone that purchases a home now even at higher rates will be better off than a person who waits until later, primarily due to the expected increase in housing costs."

He added that the real estate profession will have to adapt to changes in buying trends during the 1980s, especially since a large market is about to enter the home-buying market.

He estimated that, during the 1980s, 42 million Americans will turn 30 years old, entering the age group that often provides the greatest demand for housing.

He added that the real estate profession will have to adapt to changes in buying trends during the 1980s, especially since a large market is about to enter the home-buying market.

Industry lures industrial arts graduates from teaching

The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Industrial and Vocational Education faced with an unusual dilemma, according to Dr. William Burns, chairman.

In a time of oversupply of teachers in many fields, the department has a critically short supply of industrial arts teacher candidates.

For each graduate in industrial arts, numerous secondary teaching jobs are available, he said.

Industrial arts in the secondary school is designed to develop insights into the broad aspects of industry such as industrial production and design, automation and robotics, and the creation of new ideas and products.

The secondary student must have a strong background in mathematics and science, and a minimum of 12 credits in industrial arts.

Industrial arts programs provide opportunities in the areas of design, production, and automation, and applied technology.

Waveland Youth killed

The hit and run death of a Waveland youth Sunday morning in Pearlington is still under investigation by the Hancock County Sheriff's department.

Graveside services for Lloyd Travis Stewart, 77, of Market Street in Waveland, were Monday at Waveland Cemetery.

Investigator Robert Reay of the sheriff's department said Travis was in Aloha Trailer Park in Waveland as late as 8 p.m. Friday.

Reay stated Travis later left the city in a rebuilt 1967 English Ford Corvair on his way to California.

"On Saturday Travis called home from Texas and said his car had broken down and he would be hitchhiking back," Reay said.

The department was notified a body had been found Sunday at approximately 4:30 a.m. on US-90 between the scales and Reay's house.

Reay said the department is currently looking for the vehicle.

Reay said he is not sure of the exact time Travis was killed, but he said it was sometime between 4:30 a.m. and 5:30 a.m.

Bay Council considering utility deposit increase

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay St. Louis City Council requested its attorney draw up a new ordinance which would increase initial utility deposits for renters five times and double those for home owners.

The council is expected to vote on accepting the ordinance at their next regular meeting Sept. 8.

Passage of the ordinance would mean an increase from the current $40 deposit fee for both renters and home owners to $200 for home owners and $200 for renters.

The $20 fee includes a $30 deposit for water, $30 for gas, and $20 for sewer. The $200 renter's fee includes a $50 deposit for water, $125 for gas, and $25 for sewer.

The increases would not affect those customers currently connected to the utility system.

Also included in the proposal is an increase cost for reconnection.

The current $5 charge for connection will remain the same. However, reconnection after discontinuance of service will be increased to $15 during regular hours and to $25 for after hours.

Currently there is a $5 charge for reconnection.

A.T. Franklin, a consultant for the city who developed the deposit increases, said the increases will bring Bay St. Louis in line with other municipal utility companies.

Franklin said the increases are based on his past experience with the city and his talks with other municipalities.

"Most all municipal utility systems have different rates between renters and property owners," he said.

"The utility system has to protect itself," he said. And he added, "It's a known fact. It is not good business not to require a larger deposit."

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said, "In some cases Bay St. Louis is losing money, especially in the winter months."

He noted the possibility of renters leaving during the winter after running up a large utility bill.

"Then we get stuck with the bill," he said.

Franklin said a total of $350 for two months utilities during the winter is not unusual.

He said the city would not be required to return the deposit after the second month's billing.

Other private utility departments often send a notice ten days after the first billing and then disconnect service, he said.

City Clerk Edward Favre said it is harder for home owners to move out of the city before making final payments. For that reason he said home owner's deposit fee's have been recommended to be lower.

Favre said the deposit will be returned after service is disconnected.

He said the deposit would not be returned after one or two years of regular bill payment, a practice common with some utility companies.

Franklin, who had been requested by Bennett and Favre to develop a new rate scale, said statistics on the numbers of renters who leave without paying was not available and therefore could not be considered in his recommendations.

Again, he pointed to other municipal governments, and stated Waveland requires a utility deposit of some $250.

Grand Jury to hear conspiracy charge

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Former Bay St. Louis police officer Sand (Chris) Sand was bound over to the January Grand Jury in a preliminary hearing Tuesday before Justice Court Judge John Chevis.

Sand was arrested in mid-July for allegedly participating in a plot to kidnap a Pascagoula man and is charged with conspiracy to commit mayhem.

Bobala Bharatkumar, manager of the Driftwood Motel who was also charged with conspiracy to commit mayhem in the case involving Sand, appeared before Circuit Judge Ruble Griffin in Gulfport on Monday.

Bharatkumar pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $2,500. He is also to be deported by Sept. 1, 1981, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson, because he is an illegal alien.

Peterson said, "After the initial arrest of Bharatkumar, we contacted the Immigration Service and they found his passport is invalid."

The sheriff reports that Bharatkumar is a native of India and a citizen of Canada.

In the hearing before Chevis, Peterson was the only witness. He played two tapes made during his office's investigation into the case.

Attorney Henry Cook of Bay St. Louis represented Sand.

Bharatkumar has now been turned over to the Immigration Service for deportation, police say.

Assistant District Attorney Glenn Cannon represented the State in the Bharatkumar hearing.

ANIMAL RIGHTS
The question of animal rights promises to be one of the most controversial agricultural topics for the next few years, according to Tyson Gair, host of "Farmweek," a weekly program for Mississippi farmers and ranchers.

This topic will be investigated on "Farmweek" at 7:30 p.m., Monday, August 31, on Mississippi TV.

According to Gair, the controversy surrounds the question of whether farm animals, such as chickens, hogs and cattle, are being treated fairly.

"Farmweek" reporter John Winfield investigates the topic.

We wish to express a delayed happy birthday to S.G. (Grandpa) Thigpen Sr. who celebrated his 91st last week. Thigpen's column appears regularly in the Echo on the history of Hancock County. Author of many books on the history of Hancock and Pearl River Counties, he is widely known for his work. We wish Grandpa many more birthdays.

There are really some improvements on the streets of Bay St. Louis being worked on by the Hancock County trustees. We noted a big improvement on Washington Street Tuesday as the men were trimming the sidewalks and cleaning the streets. We feel this is a good program and hope it will continue to the best interests of the community.

Friday night seemed to have a lot of activities in progress and it was hard for one person to attend them all. A large crowd attended the Republican Cook-Out at Dr. Martinovich's, the Boy Scout Troop 208's 50th birthday and other activities at Diamondhead.

We are glad there was a good attendance at the Cook-out to welcome Secretary of Labor Raymond Donovan, Senator Thad Cochran, and Congressman Trent Lott.

Washington, D.C. is a long way from here, and we know because we spent 30 months there in service, and feel it was a high honor to have three top officials visit our county at one time.

A birthday of 50 years is a very longtime for a Boy Scout Troop to be in existence and it is a long time to be sponsored by the same group.

All the members, former members, leaders and former leaders of Boy Scout Troop 208 and the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 should be congratulated on their longtime relationship.

It is the same old story from those persons living in the annexed area of Bay St. Louis.

The residents were promised to have water, gas and sewer service in short order in 1967 when they were annexed, but the majority of the areas have not received these services as yet. Many of the promises were made by several administrations before the current officials and they are left as the old saying goes, "holding the bag."

We hope some relief will be forthcoming and that every property owner in Bay St. Louis will be provided water and sewer service.

There are many folks concerned about the lack of proper railroad crossing signals throughout Hancock County. The news released by John R. Tabb, director of the State Highway Department, that 100 percent federal funds will be available in the near future for signals should have our local officials doing the ground work now.

The local officials should find out what are the required markings and advanced warning signs that are necessary and have them installed so when the funds are available there will be no wasted time.

BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

by Richard M. DeVos and Jay VanAndel

THE DELUSION OF EQUALITY
The greatest challenge facing Americans is that of maintaining their freedom. It is not a new challenge. It has faced all humans throughout history.

Tyranny, in one degree or another, has been the natural state of affairs for most people. It still is. More than 80 percent of the world's population now live under some system of tyranny.

We tend to forget that real freedom for large numbers of people never existed anywhere at any time before 1776 in our own country. Those of tyrannical temperament even now see our freedom as an aberration, an historical accident and, they hope, a brief interlude in the long progression of despotism.

Tyranny today often takes the form of collective socialism. Collectivism must always challenge freedom because freedom represents the individual while socialism represents the collective.

Collectivism is a system of government in which the state or community owns and controls the means of production and distribution of goods and services.

understand this very well. They also understand that they can neither rule nor survive in the face of free enterprise.

The most serious and dangerous onslaught against freedom are always conducted in the name of equality. Equality in a free society means equality of opportunity. Everyone has his or her chance to make the most of his or her abilities. But individuals are not born with equal abilities, equal motivation or equal desires as we know. So, equality of outcome is a contradiction in terms. It is a society based on the principle of redistribution of wealth.

Redistribution of wealth is a major cause of poverty and economic stagnation. It is a system of government in which the state or community owns and controls the means of production and distribution of goods and services.

FAMILY TREE GENEALOGY—Mrs. Peggy Strong, Watkins of Pass Christian talked to members of the Hancock County Historical Society on how to go about collecting information to prepare a family tree genealogy. Other society members also spoke at the special meeting held in the conference room of Gulf National Bank. The Historical Society has a membership drive underway and persons interested can call Peggy Gibbons, president, at 467-3497 for further information. The local group regularly meets on the third Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Gulf National's conference room. Another genealogy meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. Sept. 9. DEATH KNEEL FOR DEATH TAXES

A small-business man I know spends 20 percent of his profits for life insurance to be certain there will be enough cash for his survivors to pay estate taxes and still hold on to the family lumber mill.

Another man who owns a soap manufacturing plant in a small, eastern city says his heirs would have to sell out if he didn't spend thousands for insurance now.

The soap plant is the major source of employment for the town, and if another company bought it, the plant would probably be closed and the business consolidated elsewhere.

One of the dreams of any person who has built a successful business during his or her lifetime is to pass that business along to other members of the family—a spouse or surviving children and grandchildren. A business is a legacy.

Today federal government policy is forcing the liquidation of hundreds of successful, privately-owned businesses because of the negative impact of estate or "death" taxes.

So many people, estate taxes are perceived as a means of forcing the redistribution of enormous amounts of money when wealthy people die.

But the truly wealthy have sophisticated ways of estate planning which help them avoid estate taxes.

The law hits squarely the small, family business when government policy ought to be to encourage the continuation of a strong, competitive independent business sector.

A recent survey of urban areas conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) revealed that a substantial number of business people responding—particularly in the northeastern part of the country—either inherited or purchased the company from a member of the family.

Urban areas, such as those in the northeast, are already facing severe drain on resources and the negative impact of death taxes on small, independent businesses will add to the problems there and elsewhere in the country.

Analysis of the revenues raised by estate taxes and the economic harm being done to the labor-intensive small-business community suggests that the death tax should be abolished and the estate tax should be replaced by a flat tax on the income of all Americans.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT

No Political Football

The problems facing our Social Security system continue to be of great concern to many of us in Congress. I am pleased that at the outset of his recent address to the nation, President Reagan reassured those receiving Social Security benefits that their interests would be fully protected in any proposals to shore up and stabilize the Social Security system.

There has been a lot of misunderstanding and fear aroused among Social Security beneficiaries, and unfortunately, there have been some politicians who have sought to make partisan gains out of the situation.

Frankly, the fiscal stability and integrity of the Social Security system is not a Republican problem or a Democratic problem, but an American problem.

Making Social Security a political football is not going to solve the fiscal crisis facing the system.

It really could hamper efforts to reach a responsible, bipartisan solution that protects the beneficiaries and insures the continued solvency and integrity of Social Security in future years.

As your senator, I am committed to helping preserve the benefits under Social Security which you have worked so hard, and contributed so much, to insure for your retirement years.

Senator Robert Dole, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Senator Bill Armstrong, who heads the Social Security subcommittee, and Congressman Jake Pickle, who chairs the Social Security panel of House Ways and Means, are working to construct a bipartisan legislative approach to solve the nation's Social Security problems.

They have expressed a desire to develop a comprehensive bill this fall. I hope their efforts will result in a responsible proposition that can be supported by a majority of both chambers in the Congress and endorsed by the President.

Both the Senate and the House have already indicated, in separate votes, that they overwhelmingly, without regard to party, desire to insure the continuation of Social Security on a sound, fiscally prudent basis, without penalizing those who are already receiving benefits for which they have worked and paid.

The underlying problem, which is now generating so much discussion, is that over the years, Social Security has been called upon to provide much more than its original intent—and that is to provide a retirement floor for participating Americans.

It is this additional loan which is straining the financial integrity of the present system, and it is not something that has developed suddenly this year. As many of you are well aware, previous administrations and Congresses enacted increases in the Social Security tax with the hope this would keep the system afloat.

A growing number of experts are becoming convinced that higher taxes are not the sole answer. It appears that the system must be tightened up and brought closer to its original purpose.

All these conflicting suggestions and criticisms of the present system must be carefully analyzed by Congress and the Executive branch before approving any sort of permanent or long-range modifications.

A great many Americans have placed their faith in the Social Security system. Millions depend on it for their retirement or disability income.

It has become an article of faith between the American people and their government for nearly a half century. This faith must be maintained and honored, and the solvency and integrity of Social Security assured for this and future generations.

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) has announced the appointment of Julius M. Ridgway to the National Petroleum Council.

The Senator recommended Ridgway's appointment to Secretary of Energy James D. Edwards last month. Julius Ridgway has extensive background and experience in the energy industry. He has proven his competence in this field and in my opinion, there is no better person for this appointment.

Ridgway, 47, is a native of Jackson and serves as President of Coastal Exploration, Inc., an oil and gas exploration firm, and Vice President of Ridgway Management, Inc.

Following graduation from Central High School in Jackson, Ridgway attended the University of Mississippi where he received his degree in Geological Engineering in 1964. He is also a graduate of the Louisiana State University School of Banking of the South in 1970.

Ridgway is associated with the Mississippi Geological Society, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and Midcontinent Oil and Gas.

CROP PRODUCTION UP

The U.S. Department of Agriculture crop production report released earlier this month estimated crop production in the state of Mississippi to be considerably higher this year. It showed larger production levels for most major crops in the state, including soybeans, cotton, rice and corn.

Yields were also estimated to be up from last year. Soybean yields were estimated at 23 bushels per acre, cotton at 590 pounds per acre, rice at 92 bushels per acre and corn at 58 bushels per acre. All of these figures are considerably higher than last year's drought-strapped production.

Of course, these figures don't necessarily reflect crop production in our county. Yields vary from county to county and the average for the state is not necessarily the same as for our county. However, actual yields may be lower than what the figures show, since they are based on August 1st field conditions before dry weather really set in. But they do give us a general picture of crop production in the state and also give our county some basis of comparison.

The production report has had an important effect on crop prices. The larger Mississippi crop estimates go hand-in-hand with larger national estimates, and that hasn't been good news for farm prices. Prices were down already, and they may stay that way until after crops are harvested.

Lower farm prices, of course, mean lower farm income. But if prices improve in the next six to eight months, farm income may be a little higher than we think. In 1978 and 1979, crop production was high, but farm income was fairly high, too. From a production standpoint, the current year may end up similar to those years at the national level.

IRRIGATE BEANS

We found out last year that waiting until podfall to begin watering soybeans was too late for top yield response. This year many of our fields have been under drought stress since blooming, some even before. At this time of year, it takes an average of one-third inch of water per acre each day for soybeans. The temptation when irrigating is to wait too late to start watering and then apply too little water at each application. With center pivot systems, 1 1/2 to 2 inches of water per acre application is a good objective, assuming a circle can be completed in three to four days. If you don't know how much water you are applying, use a rain gauge to check the sprinkler output.

FARMWEEK

Do animals have rights? Are farm animals like children? These are the questions being asked at Farm Week, which is being held at the University of Mississippi from August 27 to September 3. The week-long event will feature a variety of programs, including lectures, panel discussions, and a film festival. The goal of the event is to raise awareness of the rights of farm animals and to promote humane treatment.

GOLD THAT GROWS

Do you ever stop to think just how much we depend on agriculture every day? Take soybeans, one of our most common crops. We often don't realize it, but we use soybeans in some way practically every day, either in some food product or industrial use.

Soybeans and soybean products are used to make a variety of products, ranging from barbecue sauce to candy bars to dog food. We even use soybean in some paints.

Soybeans from the farm are crushed at the mill to produce two important food products - soy oil and soybean meal. One bushel of soybeans - about 58 pounds - produces 10.7 pounds of soy oil and 47.5 pounds of soybean meal.

Soy oil is almost a universal ingredient in shortenings and dressings. It is used in 95 percent of the prepared foods we eat. Soybean meal is used in cooking and salad oils, and 62 percent of all shortenings.

Soybean meal is used widely in livestock feed and is used for human consumption in some foreign foods, too. The meal is high in protein, ranging 44 to 50 percent in protein content.

The versatile soybean pumped about $8.6 billion into the nation's economy last year. In Mississippi, the soybean crop was valued at $477.1 million. Hancock County's soybean crop produced $1,631,325 in 1980.

READY FOR SLAGGE

Don't wait until the last minute to get equipment and silos ready for silage. The best time for making food silage is "fill 'em fast and seal 'em tight." Be prepared to fill silos quickly when you begin. Slow filling can mean a 1 percent greater spoilage loss each day. By slow filling we mean putting in five feet or less of fill each day, whether you use a trench or upright silo.

You'll need to fix any cracks and air leaks in silos and get harvesting machinery ready, too. Machinery breakdowns which slow the filling operation and leaky silo walls that let air into silage mean lower quality silage.

Use plastic covers of six-mil black polyethylene to cover the silage immediately after filling is tall, upright silos where refilling is usually done after the silage settles. You can remove the cover for refilling and replace it immediately.

For final sealing of upright silos, have enough grain or wheat on hand to weight the plastic cover. About 30 pounds of grain per foot of diameter is enough. For a 20-foot diameter silo, you'll need 600 pounds of grain.

Be sure to turn the blower for a few minutes to blow out any poisonous gases before entering a newly filled silo. SOYBEAN YIELD—Soybean yields in Hancock County are expected to be higher than last year's, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The county's soybean crop produced $1,631,325 in 1980.

The county's soybean crop produced $1,631,325 in 1980. The county's soybean crop produced $1,631,325 in 1980. The county's soybean crop produced $1,631,325 in 1980.

26 for the soybean field day.

PROTECT HAY
Good weather for hay making has created a good hay situation for many hay producers. Even so, we need to take the steps necessary to ensure a good supply of high quality hay for those cold winter months.

If hay is clipped and rained on during curing and baling, the quality will be lowered. When baled, hay that is rained on may contain dusty spores and have offensive odors. You don't want to feed moldy hay to certain classes of livestock, like horses, and you may want to store this hay separately from well-cured hay.

If you plan to store the large, round bales without shelter, put them on a high, well-drained area. Leave plenty of space between the bales for air circulation and quick water removal after rainstorms. Water under pile barns will reduce spoilage losses.

These practices will help you maintain high quality of hay in storage. Of course, high quality begins at harvest. If hay isn't harvested at the right maturity, the protein content drops and fiber content increases, meaning a lower quality hay. Harvest on time and store correctly for high quality hay.

GET READY FOR HARVEST
The dog days of summer are here again, and that means heat and lack of moisture are telling on people and crops. But while some crops are hurting, the general crop outlook is much better than it was last year. With a little luck on the weather, yields can still be good for soybeans, hay, feed and forage crops.

At this stage in the season, we don't want anything to interfere with our chances to make normal crops. That especially means controlling weeds and insects. We also need to get harvesting equipment ready now to avoid possible problems at harvest. Turnrows need to be kept clean and firm by controlling weeds with chemicals, clippers and scrapers.

This also is a good time to get fall pastures ready for planting by following, liming and fertilizing. LEGUMES CUT COSTS

Cattlemen are faced with a tough situation in producing forage crops for livestock. The prices they receive for their cattle are down, but the cost of producing forage to feed these cattle continues to increase. That means cattlemen must plan their forage programs carefully to reduce costs where possible and produce forages more efficiently.

The cost of nitrogen fertilizer generally continues to go up. This, plus the fact that cattle perform better on legumes, has created a lot of interest among cattlemen to grow legumes, which produce their own nitrogen. Legumes also have the advantage of being able to grow in poor soil.

Legumes also have the advantage of being able to grow in poor soil. Legumes also have the advantage of being able to grow in poor soil. Legumes also have the advantage of being able to grow in poor soil.

Sitting in a busy restaurant, the man behind you jostles your chair and your coat hanging over it, and then leaves a minute later without ordering.

In an elevator, a woman ignores the free space to stand close to you, and then gets out one floor later.

In a busy store, another customer crowds you at the cash register and leaves without making a purchase. They sound like common enough events, but in all three cases a crime may have been committed. You may look for your wallet, only to find it has been stolen.

The main thing to remember about pickpockets, is they can be at work anytime and anywhere. Many pickpockets are professionals, skilled at hitting their victims when they least expect it. People should be aware of this, and protect themselves.

Never count your money in public, and avoid carrying cash or credit cards that you won't need to use. Women should keep their purses tucked securely under their arms when walking or safely on their laps when sitting.

Men should keep their wallets in an inside pocket that can't be reached easily, rather than in a back pocket. Never leave your valuables unattended, even in familiar places like the office or club, and be wary in crowds.

If, despite your precautions, you find you have been pickpocketed, act immediately by reporting the crime to the police. Pickpocketing is a crime that quite often goes unreported.

Sometimes people prefer to think they have merely misplaced their possessions and hesitate to say a crime has occurred. Sometimes they haven't lost anything of value and prefer to chalk it up to experience.

But in all cases, regardless of the amount lost, the crime must be reported to keep police informed of criminal activity in the area. Then, too, until you report the crime you are liable for all the items lost, including bank books, credit cards, identification, driver's license, car registration, and other papers you may be carrying.

Notes on Plastic Surgery

Breast Implant Procedures

One of the most common types of plastic and reconstructive surgery is breast augmentation or enlargement, a procedure to provide more substance and shape to the female breast. In 1979, approximately 28,000 women underwent breast augmentation to enhance underdeveloped breasts or repair unequal development.

There are three basic procedures, according to Dr. William Porterfield, president-elect of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons (ASPRS). The most common procedure is to make an incision in the fold beneath the breast tissue, and Dr. Porterfield said a surgically created pocket is made beneath the breast or chest muscles, and an appropriately sized silicone or saline implant is inserted.

He said the implant is placed through an incision made around the lower border of the areola, the pinkish skin that surrounds the nipple. The third option offers the advantage of minimizing scars, he said. In this procedure, the surgeon makes a small, one-inch incision in the armpit.

Another variation is to make a small incision in the navel. Dr. Porterfield said that all three procedures are performed by a qualified surgeon, and he said the patient should be completely satisfied with the results. He said the patient should be completely satisfied with the results.

How long has it been since any of you made scuppernon wine? For me, it's been a long time, but I have vivid memories of lazy late-summer days on the beach at Biloxi, when the backyard arbor covered with its luscious scuppernon vines and their bounty was a welcome study retreat for sunbaked, swim-sated youngsters in the sultry afternoons.

And I remember (especially one summer when Mother and the family cook decided it was time to make the wine. I was too young to be permitted to tinkle in the final results, but I recall Mother's prized Jersey Black-John chickens, staggering all over the place, thoroughly inebriated on the scuppernon mash along with the scuppernon which had dropped from the arbor (on which they regularly grew a bit tipsy).

Somehow the mash had been left too near the chickens' quarters while the wine-making process was afoot, and those chickens were as quick to press their advantage as any thirsty human at a cocktail party. In fact their behavior, now that I think back on it, was very much like that of some persons at a long drawn-out cocktail party.

What brought all this back to mind was a phone call from a long time friend and fellow coed at Newcomb College in New Orleans these many years gone. Rosary Hattel, faced with an abundance of scuppernons at her Waveland retreat, called me the other evening, saying that she was sure I'd know what to do and how. Such confidence! So, as we talked, I thumbed through a few old cookbooks as neither of us could remember how our families had made the wine. Finally, in Mary Land's "Louisiana Cookery" I found a few grape vine recipes, and by taking a little from this, a little from that, we evolved a sort of recipe. So, here's

SCUPPERNON WINE
Wash and place a gallon of scuppernons in a crock.

Cover with honey and let stand for about a week, then squeeze through cheesecloth. Place one pound of sugar in a crock and pour the juice over it. Let the juice ferment in the crock and when fermentation stops, bottle, cork and store in a dark, cold place.

If you have a better one, please let us know. We'd appreciate it. And, if you haven't any scuppernons about try other grapes. Meanwhile, now that I was on the trail of the scuppernon, that grape so well known in our Southern states, I began remembering other grape and berry and fruit concoctions, and, coming across some cherries, I took them home and made that old boyu favorite, CALUM CHERRY BOUNCE. Wash and stem a gallon of cherries, and place in a crock and cover with a quart of boiling water. When the water cools add a quart of brandy or bourbon. Let this stand for two weeks, add another quart of brandy or bourbon, and let stand another week. Add a bit of sugar to your taste, and strain and bottle. As for myself, I add more water to make a lighter cordial, one which is less likely to make me bounce. Then hide it away for holiday time.

AAU headed for bankruptcy, boxers form new federation

Boxers in the Hancock County area are forming a new federation, the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), after the local branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of America (USA-ABF) was declared bankrupt.

The AAU, founded around the turn of the century along with the Golden Gloves Association, now finds itself about to lose its $1 million office building in Indianapolis, Ind., to pay its debts, Girard stated.

The USA Amateur Boxing Federation, (USA-ABF) has been formed to replace AAU amateur boxing, but without the debts.

Amateur boxing first and swimming second were the big money makers for the AAU, Girard said.

The Bay-Klin-Waveland Boxing Club along with seven other coastal county boxing clubs have voted to enter the new USA-ABF.

The only big change to come with USA-ABF is that no boxers can compete on a sanctioned card under the age of 10 years, lamented B-K-W head coach John Whisenhunt.

This rule affects boys like my eight-year-old son Shane who has five years experience and nine fights to his credit," Whisenhunt stated.

"Underdog (Shane) now must wait two years before he can get an approved bout under federation rules," the coach pointed out.

"This year we have a lot of new boxers at the gym, but we have room for a few more," the coach continued.

"Anyone wishing to join the boxing team must pay a fee of $5 charge can be paid by coming to the gym at 111 Main Street or calling 467-2961," he explained.

"This boxing season we have a working agreement with the Hancock County Youth Court, and the adult parole and probation office to participate in their rehabilitation program."

Jack Norwood, Whisenhunt and David Carpenter have been certified as USA-ABF boxing officials for the '81-'82 season.

Area matches to be sanctioned by USA-ABF, listed by date, sponsoring club or group.

Capture Tennis Action With High-Speed Film

To begin with you need a camera with a shutter speed of at least 1/500 second. This combined with a fast film (Kodak Ektachrome 400 film) should be able to stop all but the fastest action. It is also an excellent shutter speed to use with a telephoto lens.

For tennis, where you want to be close to the action without getting in the way, a telephoto lens is almost a must. High-speed film allows you to use a small lens opening to improve your depth of field.

Summer

best time to cut firewood

Although green wood will burn, seasoned and dry wood has more heat value and will not deposit excessive creosote in chimneys and stovepipes, says Tom Monaghan, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service forester.

Any moisture in wood reduces the recoverable heat, he explains. The heat must first dry the wood so it will burn.

Wood cut in the late fall or winter doesn't have time to dry adequately.

Monaghan recommends cutting firewood in the spring and summer.

"Split wood will dry faster than wood not split," he adds. "Wood should be stacked loosely in piles. Place a couple of rows of bricks on the ground and stack the wood on top of them. This keeps the wood off the ground and prevents decay."

He suggests stacking firewood in a sunny location and covering it with clear plastic. On sunny days, temperatures under plastic will rise much higher than outside temperatures, warming the wood and evaporating the moisture.

"This speeds up the seasoning process," he says. "Water vapor will condense on the plastic, so adequate ventilation is necessary. Keep plastic off the ends of the firewood to allow air to flow and to keep condensation from wetting the wood."

If trees are cut for firewood in the summer, you may want to leave the tops and limbs on the trees for a week or more. The leaves draw moisture from the wood and help it to dry more quickly.

"Cut only hardwood trees for firewood," he says. "Pine produces too much creosote in stovepipes and chimneys. Oak and hickory are the best choices for firewood. Oak produces a high amount of available heat per pound, but oak is easier to split."

Monaghan points out that, in many cases, landowners can improve pine stands by removing low quality oak and hickory.

Winn-Dixie sales reach all-time high

Sales and earnings for Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. reached all-time highs in fiscal 1981, the company reports from its Jacksonville, Fla. headquarters.

Sales for the year ended June 24, 1981, totaled $6,200,167,000, an increase of $811,188,000, or 15.1 percent over the previous year.

The fourth quarter sales increase was 12.4 percent.

For the year primary earnings per share were $3.07 compared with $3.42 in 1980.

Fourth quarter earnings per share figures were $3.86 versus $3.66 in 1980.

Net profit after tax amounted to $95,395,000, up from $91,950,000 in 1980.

Fourth quarter 1981 net earnings were $22,146,000 compared with $22,280,000 the previous year.

Commenting on results, President Bert L. Thomas said, "We are pleased with the results of our operations for the year and the fourth quarter."

Dividends were raised for the 38th consecutive year in July when monthly payments rose from 10 cents to 18 cents per share, making the new annual rate $2.16, up from $1.92 in fiscal 1980.

During fiscal 1981, the company opened 66 new supermarkets, closed 38 and had 1,220 in operation as of June 24, 1981. As compared with 1,192 a year ago.

MEETV: Bayou Legend gets Emmy nomination

Nominations for Emmy Awards this year include George W. Riesenberger, lighting director for Mississippi ETV's opera production "A Bayou Legend."

The nomination, announced by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, is for Outstanding Achievement in Lighting Direction.

"A Bayou Legend," William Grant Still's three-act opera of supernatural love and the difficult scenes that were occult set on a 19th century Mississippi plantation at night and Biloxi Bayou, was videotaped at other low-level light and recorded live in stereo by Vicksburg, Miss. Opera-South near Vicksburg.

It premiered on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) in June.

A number of Riesenberger's lighting designs for "A Bayou Legend" were created for supernatural love and the difficult scenes that were occult set on a 19th century Mississippi plantation at night and Biloxi Bayou, was videotaped at other low-level light and recorded live in stereo by Vicksburg, Miss. Opera-South near Vicksburg.

A total of 52 public television programs and people who worked on them have been nominated for the 1981 Prime Time Emmy Awards.

The public television nominations include 15 programs — surpassing ABC and NBC in program nominations — and 10 individual achievements.

The Prime Time Emmy Awards will be presented in September.

VA Questions

Q — What is the current hourly wage paid to veterans utilizing the work-study program under the GI Bill?

A — Effective Jan. 1, 1981, the hourly wage for work-study benefits was increased to $3.35.

from Mississippi Energy Extension Center

ENERGY ANSWERS

Q — How are car manufacturers meeting the increased mileage requirements? Is weight reduction the major factor?

A — Cars generally are lighter than they were 10 years ago and that accounts for part of the increase in mileage. It is not the only factor, however.

Engineering improvements in engines and better aerodynamics design which reduces air resistance in moving vehicles are high on our automotive specialists' list of contributing changes.

The weight of full-sized cars has decreased since the late 60s and early 70s, up to 800 pounds per vehicle in some cases. But changes in weight for mid-sized and smaller cars have not been as substantial.

What has decreased substantially since the early 70s is the overall vehicle "fleet weight." There were far more big cars in the 1970s than there are now.

For more information, or to get an answer to an energy question, contact the local Extension office or the Mississippi Energy Extension Center, P.O. Box 5406, Mississippi State, MS 39762 (601-325-3137).

150-year-old diary documents Carolina to Pearlington trip

A diary with daily entries written by Miss Adeline Russ gives a daily account of a trip which began in Brunswick County, North Carolina on February 18, 1839 and ended April 14, 35 days later at Pearlington, Miss.

In an automobile today it would take less than two days to make that trip but back then travel was much slower by horseback, wagon, cart or on foot.

In the group making this long and arduous trip in the cold and rain of winter and early spring, over mud roads — sometimes no roads at all but just paths through the wilderness — were several members of the family of Amalia Potter Russ, widow of Sempronius Russ who had died in 1816.

Also in this group of emigrants making their way from North Carolina to Mississippi were Bill Pottevent and family.

Bill Pottevent was later to become widely known as an industrialist, ship owner, farmer and the wealthiest man in this section of the country.

Samuel Potter Russ, oldest son and oldest child of Sempronius and Amalia Potter Russ, was living in Pearlington in 1829.

How and why Samuel came to Pearlington is not recorded. The first time there is any record of any Russ living in this area is an old Bible which shows that Samuel married Eliza M. Frierion on September 26, 1817.

Many of Andrew Jackson's soldiers came back to this lovely land they had passed through on their way to New Orleans, after being mustered out in the spring of 1815, after the battle of New Orleans.

It is most probable that Samuel Russ was a soldier in Jackson's artillery and had passed through Pearlington to the battle which so devastated the British in January, 1815.

It is well known that Jackson's artillery was loaded in boats in Gainesville and Pearlington on its way to New Orleans in December, 1814, so I think it is a reasonable assumption that this first Russ in this area first saw Pearlington at that time and after being mustered out, came back to this little community.

Samuel must have sent back glowing accounts of Pearlington for his widowed mother and at least some of her children, with some neighbors, left the old home in North Carolina to find a new home where her eldest son lived.

When the group from North Carolina arrived in Pearlington on April 14, 1839 at the home of Samuel Russ, they found him with a sick wife and five children.

According to the record, his wife died on May 13 just a few weeks after the arrival of the group.

Mary E. Russ, born June 10, 1814 and oldest child of Samuel Russ, married Bill Pottevent at a very young age sometime after her arrival in Pearlington.

Among the other children of Samuel was Luther Russ, the grandfather of the first Pickens Russ.

According to the diary of Adeline Russ, they left Brunswick County on February 18, 1839 and arrived in Pearlington on April 14, 1839. The diary is a valuable record of the trip and the life of the Russ family in Pearlington.

They made 19 miles that day, overtaking the Pottevent family and all camped together that night for the first time.

The diary wrote, "We pitched our tents at dark which were seven in number and the forest was adorned with our lights."

Adeline Russ was 13 years old when she made this trip with her family. In 1838 she married Dr. Mead of Gainesville.

Her daughter, Lela A. Mead became the wife of Henry Weston in 1859, thus making Adeline Russ the grandmother of the Westons at Logtown.

It would be hard for younger people today who travel everywhere speedily and in great comfort, to even imagine a trip through virgin forest, over paths rather than roads, in winter weather with teams that made only a few miles in a whole day.

While they carried some feed for their teams and food for themselves with them, they had to trade for, buy or work for the supplies they needed along the way.

On Sunday, April 21, they started at 5 a.m. and traveled three to five miles when Bill Pottevent's horse ran away and broke his cart to pieces.

It had to be repaired before they could start again. Another cart broke down, too, and they made only a few miles that day.

These people had a succession of days when they traveled anywhere from 14 to as high as 25 miles in one day. As there were no bridges back then they crossed many streams on ferries.

They traveled over bad roads and through swamps, in cold, and often, freezing weather.

The diary wrote on Feb. 25, "Traveled 25 miles and camped about dark near Mr. Smith's mill where we had grinding done. The next morning was cold and rainy."

People along the way were most hospitable, Miss Russ writing, "Sunday the 29th was a cold, windy, rainy day. About 10 o'clock it began to sleet and we were invited to Mr. Ware's home and were kindly treated."

They passed through Columbia, S.C., the capital of that state. For several days it was wet, cold and rainy and the people in the caravan suffered from cold and exposure.

A few days later they crossed the Savannah River into Georgia. It is recorded in the diary that they had bad roads and crossed a number of rivers on ferries as they trudged on westward.

On March 7, the diary wrote, "Aunt Sally became ill and the others went on while Bill Pottevent and family stayed behind with her."

On March 10 she wrote, "A cold, rainy, windy morning we traveled the worst road that ever was traveled and camped in a log cabin five miles from Macon, Ga."

The group visited relatives at Coldwater, Ga. for three days.

Due to extremely bad weather they camped in a large Baptist church on the night of the 14th. The weather continued bad. They continued to travel across rivers as they went through Georgia. After several days they arrived in Alabama, where they camped in a log cabin. The diary is a valuable record of the trip and the life of the Russ family in Pearlington.

good part of the time without any sign of a road, the diary writing, "Provisions were scarce and hard to get. We caught gophers and made that day 27 miles through the gopher nation."

On Sunday morning of April 10 they came in sight of Pearl River. They traveled a hilly road southward, "arriving at Brother Asa's about sunset and spent the next two days with him."

From what follows Asa Russ must have lived at that time somewhere in the neighborhood of what we now know as Cross Road in this county, for the diary stated that they left the home of Asa Russ traveling southward.

She wrote, "All started on a crooked road, crossed the Hobolochitto, paid $2.25 bridge toll and spent the night nearby."

They traveled the next day through great pine forests, a

They apparently paid the toll to Moses Cook as he at that time owned a toll bridge over the Hobolochitto where R. H. Crosby family now lives.

On the morning of the 14th they got an early start and traveled 25 miles, "arriving at Brother Samuel's near Pearlington."

This story tells in an impressive way how people lived and traveled 150 years ago. Unless we know how people lived back then, how can we appreciate the many conveniences, and the better ways of living that we enjoy today?

An old lady, now 89 years old, said to me recently, "The worst off person today lives better than the best off person did when I was a little girl."

In many respects what this grand old lady said is true.

Money Talk By Norine Barnes

How much are you worth? Taking financial inventory means determining how much you are worth in dollars and cents.

It means calculating your financial net worth. This is a simple procedure which can bring you great benefits if followed regularly.

It is a good idea to calculate your net worth once a year or when your situation changes.

One of the benefits of going through these calculations is that you will have an exact picture of your financial situation at a particular point in time.

This gives you a way of comparing with the previous year.

For this reason, many families do a financial inventory in December.

Another benefit of going through this procedure is that you will have records of proof for insurance claim purposes.

If you ever need them, you have evidence of your assets at the time of their purchase.

It is a good idea to save receipts and to take pictures of all your valuables.

Keep the pictures with your annual financial net worth statement in a safe place.

Many banks and lending institutions require a financial net worth statement before loans are given.

If you take your financial inventory and have this information readily available, it will be much easier for you to get a personal loan or a mortgage for a house.

Adding liquid assets is probably step no. 1. Take out your checkbook and your savings book and write down the monies you have right now in your various accounts. Add any assets that can be readily converted into cash.

Make a list of other assets such as house, furniture, rugs, stereo, radio, photographic paintings, jewelry, and furs. Check on present prices and come up with a market value of each.

What you owe is also part of your financial statement. Make a list of short-term debts such as dentist or department store. Include a list for intermediate term liabilities, items which will be paid off within a year to 18 months.

Long-term liabilities such as house and bank loans will need to be listed. Add all that you owe to find out your total liabilities.

Subtract what you owe from what you own. The amount that you come up with is your financial net worth at a particular point in time.

Has your financial net worth increased over the past year? Ideally, each family's financial net worth should increase at least 10 percent per year.

If you would like a form for figuring your net worth, call your Extension home economist at 467-6456.

Weather Report

Mississippi farmers can expect near normal temperatures and above median rainfall from mid-August until mid-September except in Gulf Coast counties, according to the National Weather Service.

30-day outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Most farmers need additional showers to help increase pasture and crop yields.

Rainfall usually ranges from about three inches in the north to six inches or more near the coast.

Rainfall patterns are expected to change from mainly afternoon thunderstorms in August to more even distribution of showers throughout the day and night in September, say agronomists at the Mid-South Farm Weather Service in Stoneville.

This change may make it harder to schedule insecticide and defoliant applications, they add.

Cotton which was cutting out in the dry spell in early August may put on new growth which will be hard to defoliate in September.

Dry soybean fields still may need irrigation to fill seed pods.

Periods of heat stress in poultry and livestock will lessen, but August will have several days with high temperatures in the mid-90s.

Normal temperature trends are downward from now on and will lower three to six degrees by mid-September. More showers and cloudiness will help keep animals cooler.

MEDICAL JOURNAL

According to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company, over-use of modern nasal sprays may do harm to one's health.

Dr. Malcolm Schvey, an ear, nose and throat specialist at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, says, "There's certainly no objection to using nasal sprays for relief from colds and allergies for two or three days. But what very often happens is people start to use them and then continue to use them for an extended period of time."

Dr. Schvey says the effect of the sprays is to constrict blood vessels in the nose, causing the mucous membrane to become thinner and the nasal passages wider, making it easier to breathe. This relief continues for as long as effect of the spray lasts.

"As time goes on, you get to a situation where the problem is being caused by the spray itself," says Dr. Schvey. "The nasal spray has allowed for a 'rebound' phenomenon with the patient using the spray more and getting less relief."

Nasal spray dependence can be avoided by careful use of these products for no longer than the labels suggest. Dr. Schvey advises, "If someone runs into a situation where he's used the spray for a few days and has not received any relief, he should see a specialist who is prepared to take care of this kind of problem."

NO DUDS IN OUR SPUDS.

And we guarantee it.

When you choose produce, demand the very best. Sometimes a cheaper price means cheaper quality—undersize avocados, limp heads of lettuce, smaller grapes that are less plump, sweet and juicy. And that's no bargain.

But the quality is never cheap at Jitney. It's always up to our high standards—and yours. The highest possible quality at the lowest possible price. That's how we define excellent value in fresh produce.

Get all the money's worth,
every time, at Jitney.
